PAUL N. CICIO

Paul N. Cicio is the President of the Industrial Energy Consumers of America (IECA). Founded in 2001, IECA is recognized as the “voice of the industrial energy consumer” in our nation’s capital. One hundred percent of IECA’s member companies are from the manufacturing sector. IECA testifies before Congress and federal agencies more than any other manufacturing trade association in the country on energy-related issues every year.

The Industrial Energy Consumers of America is a nonpartisan association of leading manufacturing companies with $1.3 trillion in annual sales, over 12,000 facilities nationwide, and with more than 1.9 million employees. It is an organization created to promote the interests of manufacturing companies through advocacy and collaboration for which the availability, use and cost of energy, power or feedstock play a significant role in their ability to compete in domestic and world markets.

IECA membership represents a diverse set of industries including IECA membership represents a diverse set of industries including: chemicals, plastics, steel, iron ore, aluminum, paper, food processing, fertilizer, insulation, glass, industrial gases, pharmaceutical, consumer goods, building products, automotive, independent oil refining, and cement.

Mr. Cicio is a well-known consumer advocate for the industrial sector on issues related to energy and the environment and is recognized for his efforts within national and international circles. Previous to IECA, Mr. Cicio was employed by The Dow Chemical Company where he held a number of diverse business and public affairs assignments.

Mr. Cicio is a graduate of Youngstown State University with a BS in Business Administration and Economics.
